PREFACE

"They that on glorious Ancestors enlarge Produce their debt instead of their discharge."—YOUNG.

When diffusion of knowledge is within our power to impart, it becomes a duty to impart it. When that knowledge takes the form of bringing records of the past into vital touch with the present, and calls forth to descendants the remembrance of those men of great deeds and many sacrifices, who in their day made God—liberty—and country their watch-words, then duty is reinforced and stimulated by enthusiasm and pride.

The Colonial Dames of the State of New York in publishing a genealogical Catalogue of their Library, were encouraged to do so by the University of the State of New York, which has persistently advocated the need for printed catalogues, due to the fact that such catalogues serve a purpose in making the contents of libraries known to the public, which the index on cards can never accomplish.

The one is passive, and only seen by users of the library, the other is aggressive, and in this instance will be the means of opening up the library of the Colonial Dames to genealogical research throughout the State, proving, we trust, of inestimable value and service to our members, and a saving of time and labor to genealogists generally.

The Library Committee of 1910-1911, composed of many prominent members, did much toward raising the necessary funds for the first expense, and were instrumental in securing the services of that efficient firm, "The Indexers."

To the patient and untiring efforts of the skilled compiler, Miss L. Green, the work has been rendered technically complete. The Dewey decimal classification has been used, and the rules for cataloguing of the American Library Association have been adapted to the special needs of this library. Though the foundation is indeed small, the aim has been to make the building thereon thorough in all its parts.

JEANNIE F.-J. ROBISON,
President.
